INTRO / BIO

Liz Klebba is an Image, Wardrobe and Color Consultant, blogger, presenter and social media influencer who thinks of herself as a Mindful Dressing Evangelist! Liz combined a life-long love of style and fashion, culture and psychology, years of international living experience and people-watching, with professional image training to found Closet Play Image in 2017.

Liz collaborates with her personal clients to cultivate their style and let their authentic selves shine! She helps them build wardrobes that flatter, fit their lifestyles, and support their goals and budget. (Why budget? Because: Liz = Financial Responsibility Geek) Closet Play Image also provides workshops and trainings to businesses to help with those awkward conversations around employee dress issues. Her passion for authentic personal style and classroom experience give Liz a unique ability to teach the language of style to her clients, allowing them to step out confidently into the day's adventures!

Liz is a Certified Image Consultant and serves as President of the US Southeast Chapter of the Association of Image Consultants International. She earned her Bachelor of Arts from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, and a Masters in Teaching at Augusta University.
